Joe's Jots

Abortion. I appreciate your positive comments about my sermon from last Sunday on cherishing and protecting unborn life. If you weren't here, I would encourage you to listen to it on our website. I want to cover an angle on this issue that I didn't touch on Sunday. I didn't talk about women who are post-abortive, or who have chosen in the past to have an abortion. Many of these women struggle with immense regret and guilt over their decision to have an abortion, a decision many were pressured into by a romantic partner or health care provider, a decision possibly made in a moment of fear and loneliness. To such women must be extended the mercy and grace of God. There is no sin God will not fully forgive when we fully repent. In fact, some post-abortive women are among the most passionate opponents of abortion because they know firsthand the pain that arises from that decision. Any Christian response to abortion must include concern for women who are post-abortive, women to whom Jesus would show compassion, women Jesus very much loves.
